

Daily Devotional: April 21, 2020 And Now For Something Completely Different!

Hi everyone. I'm guessing you are all pretty well spent from hearing about the coronavirus 24/7. Today, X number of people have contracted the virus; X number have died; X number are hospitalized; X number are being ventilated; X number have been tested; X number of dollars have been appropriated. The statistics are mind-bending, to the point that we wonder if there is an end in sight. While all of this information is critical to our understanding of the spread and eventual containment of this deadly disease, this is not another post about coronavirus. In fact, it is quite the opposite.

Now, there is nothing inherently wrong with keeping one eye turned toward the media in tracking this disturbing global pandemic. But sometimes, we need to divert our other eye toward more relaxing, diversionary topics, in order to give our minds and our anxieties a rest.

Therefore, I have come up with a number of what I hope will be stimulating conversation starters that I hope you will use the next time you are sitting around the dinner table, playing a game, doing a chore together, during your backyard hangout times, or with your friends, family or coworkers via FaceTime, Skype or Zoom.

Take turns asking the questions of each other and allow time for everyone to answer. You might be shocked at the answers you receive from some of the people you're closest to!

Have some fun and relish this blessed diversion from the constant Coronavirus dialogues!

1. If you could eat only one type of food for the rest of your life, what would it be?
